The President's Message

Dear Esteemed OICOA Members and Colleagues,

I am pleased to address you through this edition of the OICOA Newsletter. I would like to acknowledge the World Human Rights Day which was celebrated last year on 10th December, which offers not only an opportunity to look back on the past month, but also a moment to reflect on the year 2025 as a whole.

It is with deep sorrow that I begin by sharing our deep sorrow regarding the crash of the Tripoli-bound jet in Türkiye on 23 December 2025, which took the lives of the Chief of Staff of the Libyan Army, General Mohammed al-Haddad, four senior military officials, and three members of the flight crew. In the wake of this tragic loss, I would like to extend, on behalf of the Ombudsman Institution of Türkiye and as the President of the OICOA, my sincere condolences to the families of those who lost their lives, to their colleagues in the Libyan Armed Forces, and to the friendly and brotherly people of Libya.

The end of the year 2025 also marked a period of change and continuity within our Association as the newly appointed Federal Tax Ombudsman of Pakistan, Mr. Muhammad Zafar ul Haq Hijazi, assumes his office. I would like to warmly congratulate him and wish him every success as he assumes this important responsibility. With his appointment and his new role as Secretary General of the OICOA, I am confident that our joint efforts will further strengthen the role and visibility of Ombudsman offices, across the Islamic world and beyond.

At the same time, I would also like to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to Mr. Mahmood Jah for his dedicated and valuable contributions during his tenure as Federal Tax Ombudsman of Pakistan and as Secretary General of the OICOA. His experience, commitment, and leadership have made a meaningful impact on our Association. I am confident that the insight and perspective he has brought to the Ombudsman community will continue to inspire and guide our work in the years to come, and I wish him every success in his future endeavors.

Throughout the year, we participated in numerous national, regional, and international meetings and events. These engagements strengthened dialogue among Ombudsman Institutions, expanded cooperation, and contributed to the shared ideals that unite us: the protection of human rights, the promotion of good administration and equity. Behind every conference, visit, and exchange lay the same intention: to learn from one another and to better serve the people who place their trust in our Institutions. Our activities have reflected our continued dedication to strengthening the Ombudsman, enhancing collaboration with international organizations, and promoting human rights, particularly the rights of children, women, and persons with disabilities, and the fight against all forms of hatred and violence.

This year has also reminded us that progress in our field cannot be separated from the realities of the world around us. The ongoing tragedy in Palestine has cast a long shadow over 2025. The suffering of civilians, particularly women and children, has deeply affected our collective conscience. We sincerely hope that this pain will come to an end as soon as possible, and that peace, justice, and human dignity will prevail.

As we conclude the year, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to all members of the OIC Ombudsman Association for their continued cooperation and solidarity. Together, guided by our shared values, we will continue to work for human rights, good administration, fairness, and respect for human dignity.

Mehmet Akarca

PRESIDENT OIC OMBUDSMAN ASSOCIATION
CHIEF OMBUDSMAN OF TURKIYE

The Secretary General's Message

Esteemed OICOA Members and Colleagues,

The beginning of a new year offers an opportunity to take stock of how ombudsman institutions continue to respond to public needs through principled engagement, accessibility, and dialogue. Recent initiatives undertaken by members of the OIC Ombudsman Association illustrate a shared commitment to these core values and to the steady strengthening of institutional practice.

I wish to acknowledge the engagement of the OICOA President and Chief Ombudsman of Türkiye, Hon'ble Mr. Mehmet Akarca, with the families of Ukrainian prisoners of war through an online consultation. In circumstances marked by uncertainty and deep human concern, such engagement affirms the relevance of ombudsman institutions as spaces for listening, reassurance, and institutional accountability. It also highlights the humanitarian dimension of ombudsman work, particularly where formal remedies intersect with human vulnerability.

My congratulations also extend to our OICOA Board Member and Mediator of the Kingdom of Morocco, Hon'ble Mr. Hassan Tariq, on the launch of Morocco's first National Day of Mediation. This initiative sets an important benchmark for the international ombudsman and mediation community. By promoting mediation as an institutional practice, it advances dialogue between administrations and users, supports conflict prevention, and contributes to confidence in public governance. The growing emphasis on mediation is essential to modern administrative justice systems that seek solutions grounded in understanding rather than escalation.

I further congratulate the Mediator of the Togolese Republic on being elected West African Coordinator of the African Ombudsman and Mediators Association. This election signals regional confidence in the role of ombudsman institutions in fostering coordination, shared learning, and common approaches to accountability and good administration.

Finally, I commend Ms. Fauzia Viqar for convening the first meeting of the OICOA Subcommittee on Women's Rights. This important initiative creates a structured space for collaboration on gender-responsive governance. I look forward to the constructive outcomes that this forum is well positioned to generate, both in terms of policy dialogue and practical institutional guidance.

I extend my sincere wishes to all OICOA Members and colleagues for a peaceful and prosperous New Year.

Warm regards,

Muhammad Zafar ul Haq Hijazi

SECRETARY GENERAL - OIC OMBUDSMAN ASSOCIATION
FEDERAL TAX OMBUDSMAN OF PAKISTAN

From the Desk of Executive Secretary

Distinguished OICOA Board Members,

As we all step into 2026, I would like to wish all OICOA Members, a productive and joyous year ahead. It has been encouraging to see, even in these early weeks, how actively our Member Institutions continue to engage with citizens, with one another, and with the wider international community. These efforts speak to the practical energy of the OIC Ombudsman Association and the shared sense of responsibility that drives our work.

I would like to acknowledge Sabina Aliyeva, OICOA Board Member and Human Rights Commissioner of the Republic of Azerbaijan, for holding citizens' receptions and personally engaging with complainants. Such direct interaction is the foundation of credible ombudsman work. When grievances are heard firsthand, institutions not only resolve cases more effectively but also reaffirm their public purpose.

I also wish to commend Fauzia Viqar for convening the first meeting of the OICOA Subcommittee on Women's Rights. I had the opportunity to attend this meeting, and it was particularly encouraging to witness the quality of dialogue, the openness of exchange, and the seriousness with which participants approached shared challenges pertaining to advancement and protection of women rights. The engagement demonstrated that this subcommittee has strong potential to generate practical outcomes and sustained collaboration.

It is a matter of pride for OICOA that our Member Institution, the Mediator of the Togolese Republic, recently hosted an exclusive working visit by the Ombudsman of the Republic of Chad. This visit which focused on studying administrative and institutional models, highlights the growing importance of peer learning within our network. Such exchanges strengthen ombudsman institutions in ways that formal frameworks alone cannot. I also take pride in the Administrative Control Authority of Libya officially joining the International Association of Anti-Corruption Authorities. This step represents meaningful international integration and reflects the increasing role of OICOA member institutions in global integrity and oversight efforts.

The strong presence of OICOA members at the 11th Conference of the States Parties to the United Nations Convention against Corruption further reinforced this trajectory. Contributions by the Jordan Integrity and Anti-Corruption Commission, the Inspectorate of Government of Uganda, and the Administrative Control Authority of Libya demonstrated the value of ombudsman and oversight institutions in international dialogue on accountability, transparency, and public trust.

As we move forward, the OICOA Secretariat remains focused on channeling this collective energy into stronger coordination, deeper cooperation, and clearer institutional outcomes. Our ambition this year is to help elevate the Association's work to an even loftier level of impact and relevance. This effort depends not only on structures and plans, but on the continued support, engagement, and shared commitment of our member institutions. I look forward to working closely with all of you in the coming months.

With warm regards and best wishes for the year ahead,

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY
ADVISOR (LEGAL) - FEDERAL TAX OMBUDSMAN OF PAKISTAN

Marking International Human Rights Day on 10th December, Hon'ble Ms. Ghada Hameed Habib (OICOA Board Member and Secretary-General of Bahrain's Ombudsman and Head of the Prisoners and Detainees Rights Commission), remarked that Bahrain's approach to human rights rests on institutional oversight, legal safeguards, and administrative accountability rather than declaratory commitments. She framed Bahrain's human rights trajectory within a broader reform process led by Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa, with continued supervision by Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa.

Ms. Habib stated that human rights protection in Bahrain has been embedded into governance through dedicated mechanisms tasked with supervision and redress. Central among these are the Ombudsman's Office and the Prisoners and Detainees Rights Commission, which operate independently to monitor law-enforcement conduct and detention conditions. The Ombudsman's Office oversees police performance and inspects

According to Ms. Ghada Habib, the existence of multiple, functionally distinct oversight bodies reflects a model aimed at sustaining accountability through routine institutional practice rather than episodic intervention. She maintained that such structures are essential to maintaining public confidence, ensuring compliance with legal standards, and anchoring human rights protections within the state's administrative system, positioning Bahrain as an engaged participant in international human rights dialogue rather than a passive signatory to global norms.

Office of the Ombudsman of Indonesia Warns Weak Governance Could Prolong the Middle-income Trap in the Country

Indonesia risks remaining trapped at middle-income status unless governance of investment and downstream industrialisation is significantly strengthened, the Ombudsman Republik Indonesia said on 17 December in Jakarta. Presenting the Ombudsman's 2025 Systemic Review, Hery Susanto, a member of the institution, cautioned that economic expansion without parallel improvements in public-service quality, policy continuity, and institutional coordination would produce uneven and fragile outcomes.

The study estimates that Indonesia may only exit the middle-income trap between 2036 and 2038, a timeline that could slip further if current investment and downstreaming strategies remain weakly governed. While Indonesia is classified as an upper-middle-income country, with per-capita GNI of around USD 4,800–5,100, the Ombudsman identified sharp regional disparities. The review also flagged environmental pressures linked to nickel downstreaming in Sulawesi and Maluku, limited domestic investment participation, and insufficient absorption of local labour despite high capital inflows.

Based on these findings, the Ombudsman issued five strategic recommendations, including stronger cross-sector coordination, more equitable distribution of investment and infrastructure, affirmative support for domestic investors, tighter environmental oversight, and labour-inclusive downstreaming policies. Bobby Hamzar Rafinus, Vice Chairman of the Ombudsman, stressed that citizen complaints remain a critical source for diagnosing governance failures. Policymakers attending the presentation—including parliamentary, economic, and investment officials—welcomed the findings, noting that escaping the middle-income trap will depend not only on growth rates, but on the quality, inclusiveness, and sustainability of Indonesia's development model.

During the event, representatives of the Ombudsman's Office outlined how mediation can resolve disputes more efficiently while safeguarding citizens' rights and improving the responsiveness of public services.

Beyond outlining its mandate, the Ombudsman Officials used the platform to signal a longer-term shift in how grievances are handled in Djibouti's administrative system. Looking toward the 2030 horizon, the Institution presented priorities centred on bringing services closer to users, modernising complaint-handling processes, and embedding transparency and accountability into everyday administrative practice. These orientations were framed not as abstract reforms, but as necessary adjustments to meet rising public expectations and reduce friction between administrations and citizens.

The Ombudsman of Djibouti's participation also provided an opportunity to engage directly with justice-sector professionals and administrative actors on the practical use of mediation in resolving everyday disputes between citizens and public authorities. By outlining its operational tools and future priorities, the Institution sought to clarify how mediation can function as a first-response mechanism within the justice ecosystem, reducing procedural delays and strengthening administrative accountability.

ADMINISTRATIVE CONTROL AUTHORITY OF LIBYA

Chairman of Libya's Administrative Control Authority Presses for Tighter Coordination in Anti-Corruption Drive

In Tripoli on 28 December, Hon'ble Mr. Abdullah Qaderbough, OICOA Member and Chairman of Libya's Administrative Control Authority (ACA), met members of the Anti-Corruption Committee of the Supreme Council of the State of Libya, amid renewed efforts to bring greater coherence to the country's fragmented oversight system. The talks centred on how existing monitoring tools, legislative provisions, and audit findings can be translated into practical checks on corruption rather than remain confined to reports and procedures.

Much of the discussion focused on public spending and accountability at senior levels of the administration. Mr. Qaderbough's delegation outlined ACA Libya's phased approach to closing public accounts and tightening scrutiny of leadership appointments, arguing that unchecked discretion in senior postings continues to undermine both efficiency and public confidence. The meeting also revisited the findings of ACA's 54th Annual Report for 2024, which lays out a detailed picture of Libya's financial, economic, and administrative condition, and the need to make such information accessible enough to support genuine public oversight.

Both sides agreed that institutional overlap has too often diluted responsibility, allowing corruption cases to stall between agencies. Strengthening coordination between supervisory and legislative bodies, they said, is essential if audit findings are to lead to corrective action. The meeting was framed as part of a broader attempt to move Libya's reform agenda beyond diagnosis toward enforcement—protecting public funds, safeguarding the independence of oversight institutions, and restoring a measure of credibility to measure state governance.

Administrative Control Authority of Libya Joins Global Anti-Corruption Network IAACA

OICOA's Member Institution, Administrative Control Authority of Libya has formally joined the International Association of Anti-Corruption Authorities (IAACA), as a step toward deeper engagement with international anti-corruption frameworks. The membership was approved during the Association's 15th Annual Meeting, held in Doha on 20 December, bringing Libya into a network of 192 oversight and anti-corruption bodies worldwide.

The decision was taken on the sidelines of Libya's participation in a series of IAACA meetings in Qatar, including the Executive Committee session, the Annual Conference, and the General Assembly. Discussions, held under the theme "Integrity for the Future: Innovation, Cooperation and Action against Corruption," focused on cross-border cooperation, the use of technology in oversight, and the role of public engagement in strengthening integrity systems. The meetings also signalled a push toward expanded regional conferences and specialised training programmes aimed at building institutional capacity.

Commenting on the move, Mr. Ibrahim Ali, Adviser to the Chairman of ACA Libya for Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation, described the accession as a strategic opportunity to reconnect Libya's oversight institutions with global best practices. He said IAACA membership would facilitate the transfer of technical expertise, improve supervisory performance, and support national efforts to curb corruption and illicit financial flows, while strengthening international confidence in Libya's public institutions. Established as an independent and non-political body, IAACA works to advance cooperation under the UN Convention against Corruption—making Libya's entry both a symbolic and practical step in its wider governance reform agenda.

Abdulla Qaderboh attends the 11th Session of the Parties to the UNCAC in Doha

Chairman of ACA Libya and OICOA Member, Hon'ble Mr. Abdullah Qaderbuh took part in a meeting of the Arab Network for Promoting Integrity and Combating Corruption, held on the sidelines of the eleventh Conference of the Parties to the United Nations Convention against Corruption (UNCAC) in Doha on 18th December. The Libyan delegation was led by Mr. Abdullah Qaderbuh, who framed the participation as part of Libya's broader effort to re-engage with regional anti-corruption and integrity frameworks.

Speaking during the meeting, Mr. Qaderbuh said Libya's involvement in the Arab Network reflects a recognition that corruption-related challenges increasingly cross national borders and cannot be addressed through isolated national efforts. He stressed the importance of sustained coordination among Arab oversight bodies, particularly in the exchange of information and expertise, recovery of illicit assets, protection of public funds, and reinforcement of accountability mechanisms across the region.

Established in 2008, the Arab Network serves as a regional platform bringing together governmental oversight bodies, judicial authorities, and non-governmental actors to review progress, set priorities, and align reform efforts. Supported by the United Nations Development Programme and working with partners such as the Arab League and the UN Office on Drugs and Crime, the Network provides a forum Libya is seeking to engage with more actively as it strengthens its institutional role in combating corruption and promoting transparency.

Regional Office (Peshawar) of Pakistan's Federal Ombudsman Secures Release of over Rs. 2.02 Million in Pension for Retired Employees of Frontier Corps Personnel

Federal Ombudsman of Pakistan's Regional Office in Peshawar has brought closure to six pension commutation disputes involving retired personnel of Frontier Corps (North), securing the release of over Rs. 2.02 million in long-overdue arrears.

The complaints, filed by pensioners from Swabi, Peshawar, Nowshera, Khyber, and Mardan, had remained unresolved through routine administrative channels. Following scrutiny by the Federal Ombudsman Secretariat situated in Islamabad, the cases were examined on merit and implemented without further delay.

For the complainants, the resolutions translated not only into financial relief but also into the restoration of confidence in institutional redress. Several beneficiaries acknowledged that the intervention spared them protracted correspondence and uncertainty often associated with pension matters.

Officials at the Regional Office reiterated that pension-related grievances continue to form a significant part of their caseload, particularly where retired public servants face delays in accessing lawful entitlements.

The Federal Ombudsman has directed the Federal Government Employees Housing Authority (FGEHA) to issue a formally approved and time-bound development plan for the Green Enclave housing project in Bhara Kahu, responding to long-standing grievances from thousands of federal employees who remain without possession more than a decade after applying.

The intervention comes amid persistent concerns over the performance of state-run housing schemes in Islamabad, many of which have remained stalled for years despite repeated assurances. Sixteen years on, development remains incomplete, infrastructure is absent, and possession has not been handed over.

Federal Ombudsman of Pakistan directs Federal Government Employees Housing Authority (FGEHA) to give time-bound development schedule for Islamabad's Green Enclave

According to the Federal Ombudsman's findings, more than 3,000 allottees in Green Enclave-I are still awaiting possession, while Green Enclave-II—later rebranded as the Sky Garden Housing Scheme—has accumulated nearly 29,500 applicants without any credible development timeline. Complainants told the Federal Ombudsman that despite repeated correspondence, no substantive progress had been made and no clear roadmap had been shared by the authority.

In its response, FGEHA cited escalating project costs and informed the Ombudsman that a committee had been constituted to explore possible options for moving the project forward. The Federal Ombudsman of Pakistan, however, noted that internal deliberations could not substitute for transparency or accountability to allottees. The authority has now been ordered to finalize and disclose the committee's recommendations within 60 days and to formally communicate a development schedule approved by its competent forum. The Ombudsman further noted that if FGEHA fails to comply or provide a credible plan, affected allottees may approach the President of Pakistan within 30 days of receiving the committee's findings, as provided under the applicable grievance redressal framework.

The SCW's mandate was presented as encompassing policy formulation, legislative review, public awareness, and research, supported by international cooperation including engagement aligned with global development frameworks. The Ombudsman Office's Equal Opportunities Committee was described as an internal governance instrument to embed equality principles in recruitment, training, promotion practices, and workplace culture, coordinated with the SCW to ensure coherence with national objectives. The statement reflected a governance model where women's advancement is treated as both a national development priority and an internal institutional standard.

Particular attention was drawn to reforms affecting women's employment, including the repeal of restrictions on women's employment in a large number of occupations, and to institutional strengthening through amendments to the Ombudsman's mandate, including the development of anti-discrimination capacity within the Office. She also described institutional leadership by the Ministry of Social Affairs and Microfinance and the National Institute for Women (INF), including support services for survivors of gender-based violence and legal participation to protect victims' rights.

The presentation also highlighted landmark legislation enacted in December 2021 aimed at strengthening protections against sex-based offences and improving sexual and reproductive health frameworks. Ms. Hontonou also identified continuing challenges, such as socio-cultural barriers, underreporting, limited budget allocations, and low representation in public administration, and outlined priorities including sectoral gender diagnostics, expanded access to credit and training, male engagement in women's leadership, and gender-responsive budgeting.

The representative of the Mediator of the Togolese Republic reaffirmed Togo's national commitment to women's rights through constitutional, criminal law, family law, and policy reforms. The presentation also described institutional mechanisms aimed at practical access to justice and protection, including Houses of Justice, support centers for victims, one-stop service models, and programs promoting girls' education and leadership. Social and economic measures cited included free public education reforms, maternal health supports, gender-responsive budgeting, and public procurement measures designed to increase women's economic participation. The statement also referenced steps to reduce financial barriers to women's political participation and ongoing consultations on quota mechanisms.

Ms. Hande Hazneci, (Expert - Department of European Union and International Relations) represented the Ombudsman Institution of Türkiye (an OICOA Board Member Institute). She summarized Türkiye's constitutional equality guarantees and legal protections against violence, including Law No. 6284 as a central instrument for protective orders and support measures. She highlighted institutional mechanisms such as Violence Prevention and Monitoring Centers (ŞÖNİM) and the KADES mobile application that enables emergency alerts. On the Ombudsman Institution's role, she noted its complaint-based mandate and its jurisdiction over public administration, alongside contributions through special reporting and coordination recommendations, including a report on strengthening institutional harmony in combating violence against women. Ms. Hazneci's statement emphasized outreach to increase women's engagement with redress systems, especially for vulnerable groups.

Mr. Almas Ali Jovindah, Executive Secretary of OICOA, characterized the Subcommittee's establishment as a milestone in OICOA's institutional development and a direct reflection of the Association's commitment to inclusive administrative justice. He stressed that women's rights are not peripheral to governance, but central to the credibility of public accountability systems. He underlined the Subcommittee's role in peer learning, capacity-building, and identifying procedural gaps that impede women's access to remedies. He also commended FOSPAH's hosting of the Subcommittee Secretariat as both symbolic and substantive, given its specialized mandate and operational experience.

Adding a sub-national institutional perspective, Mr. Arif Anwar Baloch, Inspection and Monitoring Advisor to the Provincial Ombudsman of Punjab, outlined the complementary roles of Punjab's Ombudsman institutions and highlighted service-delivery reforms aimed at accessibility, including a 24-hour helpline, multi-channel complaint registration, district-level presence, and a Mobile Van Service to reach remote communities. He also referenced internal anti-harassment committees across provincial departments and institutional quality measures, including ISO certification.

From Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, Ms. Shabana Gul, Director, Provincial Ombudsman Secretariat, shared complaint statistics reflecting growth in overall filings alongside persistently lower engagement by women complainants, which she linked to continuing awareness and accessibility constraints. She emphasized the value of the Subcommittee as a platform to develop strategies that build women's confidence in Ombudsman institutions. Her remarks also drew upon Islamic legal and ethical principles concerning dignity, justice, equality, and protection from abuse of power, connecting normative foundations with contemporary institutional responsibilities.

In her concluding remarks, H.E. Ms. Fauzia Viqar synthesized emerging themes from the country presentations, noting the value of institutional mechanisms that combine legal reform with practical accessibility, including advisory functions, complaint responsiveness, and mobile outreach models. She proposed the preparation of a compendium of laws, policies, and institutional initiatives shared during the meeting for circulation among OICOA members, and the development of consensus-based recommendations to be presented to OICOA's governing bodies.

The Chair also reiterated plans for capacity-building sessions, inviting collaboration from the Women Development Organization, particularly in areas of gender-sensitive governance, administrative protection mechanisms, and institutional training.

During open discussion, participants considered meeting frequency for 2026. Proposals ranged from bi-monthly convenings to quarterly sessions, with broad initial support emerging for a quarterly schedule, to balance continuity with institutional workload realities. Suggestions were also made to adopt hybrid participation formats and to share best practices through short documentary or video presentations to improve dissemination and peer learning.

Hon'ble Fauzia Viqar addresses Ministry of Human Rights Event Citing FOSPAH's Role in Restoring and Advancing Women's Rights across Pakistan

"No woman should have to choose between her dignity and her livelihood," said Hon'ble Fauzia Viqar (OICOA Member and FOSPAH), while speaking at a Ministry of Human Rights (MoHR) event held at the Prime Minister House, Islamabad, where she placed women's economic security at the centre of Pakistan's justice agenda.

Ms. Viqar highlighted the work of Federal Ombudsperson Secretariat for Protection Against Harassment (FOSPAH) as a practical model of rights enforcement, noting that the institution has helped restore property worth more than PKR 10 billion to women while offering remedies that are swift, cost-free, and attuned to the realities women face. She underscored that such accessibility has not only strengthened confidence in legal redress but has also begun to deter misconduct across workplaces and public institutions.

Pointing to the challenges ahead, Ms. Viqar called for stronger resource allocation, more effective inheritance mutation processes, and wider access to legal aid to consolidate recent gains. Sustaining progress, she argued, depends on ensuring that justice mechanisms remain close to those they serve—capable of protecting dignity without forcing women to sacrifice economic survival.

The event, held under the theme "Human Rights: Our Everyday Essentials," also featured the launch of a landmark study titled "Harmonising Pakistan's Laws with International Human Rights Standards," developed by MoHR in collaboration with Research Society of International Law.

Hon'ble Fauzia Viqar Engages BUIITEMS Students in Quetta (Pakistan) on Tackling Digital Gender-Based Violence

OICOA Member and Pakistan's Federal Ombudsperson for Protection Against Harassment, Hon'ble Ms. Fauzia Viqar addressed students and faculty at Balochistan University of Information Technology, Engineering and Management Sciences (BUIITEMS), Quetta, in a focused session on digital gender-based violence, as part of ongoing efforts to confront the risks women face in online spaces.

Speaking to an engaged audience, the Ombudsperson highlighted how digital platforms, while expanding access to education, work, and self expression, have also become sites of harassment, intimidation, and abuse. She outlined the legal protections available under Pakistan's framework, the mandate of FOSPAH in addressing online harassment, and the importance of early reporting and institutional accountability.

The session emphasized the role universities play in shaping responsible digital behaviour and fostering safe online environments. Through dialogue with students, the discussion explored emerging patterns of online abuse, the psychological and professional impact on victims, and the need for awareness, prevention, and accessible redressal mechanisms. FOSPAH reaffirmed its commitment to working with academic institutions nationwide to strengthen awareness, prevention, and support for those affected by digital harassment.

Pakistan's Provincial Ombudsman of Sindh for Workplace Harassment Holds National Working Women's Day Seminar

Marking National Working Women's Day, the Sindh Ombudsman for Protection against Harassment of Women at the Workplace (PHWWP) convened a seminar highlighting the central role of women's inclusion in Pakistan's social and economic progress.

Addressing the gathering, Sindh High Court Chief Justice Zafar Ahmed Rajput stressed that sustainable development is impossible without the full participation of women.

Pakistan's Provincial Ombudsman of Sindh (PHWWP) and OICOA Member, Justice (R) Shahnawaz Tariq, underscored the institution's role in safeguarding women against workplace harassment and discrimination through awareness initiatives and strict enforcement of the Protection against Harassment of Women at the Workplace Act, 2010. He emphasized that safe and dignified work environments are essential to unlocking women's potential across sectors. He rejected notions of gender superiority and reminded participants that equality is a constitutional obligation, warning that societies which marginalize women ultimately undermine their own growth.

The event also recognized administrative leadership within the Ombudsman's office, with Justice Tariq commending Registrar of the Sindh Ombudsman (PHWWP), Mr. Muneer Ahmed Channa, for strengthening institutional performance. The seminar concluded with the presentation of shields to the Chief Justice, senior officials, civil society representatives, and women professionals from diverse fields.

Pakistan's Provincial Ombudsman of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Facilitates Restoration of Education Scholarship for a Student

The Office of the Provincial Ombudsman Khyber Pakhtunkhwa has intervened to resolve a delayed education scholarship case, enabling the release of funds under the Stoori Da Khyber Pakhtunkhwa programme after administrative inaction by the Peshawar Board.

The matter came before the Ombudsman through a complaint filed by a student from Charsadda whose scholarship remained pending despite repeated follow-ups. After examining the complaint, the Ombudsman's Secretariat initiated proceedings and engaged the concerned authorities to address the lapse.

According to officials, the case was processed through the Ombudsman's investigation mechanism, resulting in the clearance of the scholarship and restoring the student's access to financial support essential for continuing his education. The resolution underscores the Ombudsman's role in addressing maladministration, particularly in cases where bureaucratic delays threaten educational continuity. The intervention highlights how oversight institutions can serve as effective remedies when routine administrative processes fail to deliver timely outcomes. Education-related grievances, officials noted, remain a recurring category of complaints where delays can have lasting personal and social consequences.

The Provincial Ombudsman's Office reiterated that students and citizens facing undue delay or administrative neglect in public-sector schemes may seek redress through the Ombudsman forum, which operates independently to ensure fairness and accountability in public service delivery.

During the meeting, Ms. Rubab Mehdi outlined the work of the Ombudsperson's office in addressing complaints of maladministration misuse of authority, and service delivery failures.

She explained that the institution serves as a direct channel for citizens, particularly those without the means or capacity to pursue litigation, to seek timely and non-adversarial redress. Ms. Mehdi emphasized that the Ombudsperson's role is not confrontational but corrective, aimed at improving administrative conduct and restoring public trust in state institutions. She noted that recurring complaints often point to systemic weaknesses rather than isolated lapses, and said closer coordination with the Law Department could help translate findings into durable administrative and legal reforms.

The Ombudsperson also stressed the importance of follow-through on recommendations issued by her office, saying that effective accountability depends on implementation rather than inquiry alone. She called for clearer institutional pathways to ensure that corrective directions result in measurable change on the ground.

The Law Minister welcomed the briefing and said the provincial government remains open to engagement with oversight institutions. Both sides agreed to continue dialogue to strengthen coordination between the executive and the Ombudsperson's office, with the aim of improving governance standards and citizen confidence in public administration.

In her remarks, Ms. Mehdi drew attention to the increasing number of complaints linked to online harassment and misuse of digital platforms. Ombudsman: Əfv və amnistiya institutları humanizm prinsiplərinin hüquqi ifadəsidir

17.12.2025 [09:24] Çap et A* A*

Bakı, 17 dekabr, AZƏRTAC

Azərbaycan Respublikasında insan hüquq və azadlıqlarının təmin edilməsi dövlət siyasətinin əsas istiqamətlərindən biridir. Bu siyasətin mühüm tərkib hissəsini cəza siyasətində humanizm, mərhəmət və fərdi yanaşma prinsiplərinin tətbiqi təşkil edir. Əfv və amnistiya institutları məhz bu prinsiplərin hüquqi mexanizmləri kimi çıxış edərək, cəzanın tərbiyəvi mahiyyətinin gücləndirilməsinə və məhkumların cəmiyyətə yenidən inteqrasiyasına şəxs kimi qaydısına xidmət edir.

AZƏRTAC xəbər verir ki, bu sözləri Azərbaycanın İnsan Hüquqları üzrə müvəkkili (ombudsman) Sabina Əliyeva deyib.

Onun sözlərinə görə, Ümummilli Lider Heydər Əliyevin insan hüquq və azadlıqlarının qorunması sahəsində həyata keçirdiyi hüquqi islahatlardan biri də cəza siyasətinin humanistləşdirilməsi, beyməhkəmə hüquqi aktlarda və milli qanunvericilikdə təsbit olunmuş əsas təbii hüquqlardan biri olan yaşamaq hüququnun təmini ilə bağlı olmuşdur.

Miqrantların hüquqlarının müdafiəsində Ombudsman təsisatlarının rolu

Müasir dünyada miqrasiya yalnız demoqrafik və sosial proses deyil, eyni zamanda insan hüquqları baxımından ciddi çağırışlar doğuran global bir fenomendir. Silahlı münaqişələr, iqlim dəyişikliyi, iqtisadi qeyri-sabitlik, təbii və texnologiya fəlakətləri, eləcə də globalaşma və əmək bazarındakı dəyişikliklər milyonlarla insanı doğulduğu və yaşadığı əraziləri tərk etməyə məcbur edir. Bu prosesin mərkəzində isə hər zaman insanın dəyər və hələdə olmasından, miqrasiya statusundan və hüquqi vəziyyətindən asılı olmayaraq hər bir şəxs fundamental hüquq və azadlıqlara malikdir.

Lakin təcrübə göstərir ki, məhz miqrasiya prosesində olan şəxslər, o cümlədən sığınacaq axtaranlar, qaçqınlar, əməkçi miqrantlar, vətəndaşlığı olmayan şəxslər və daxili köçkünlər insan hüquqlarının pozulması baxımından daha həssas qruplar sırasındadır. Onların saxlanma şəraiti, sənədləşmə problemləri, ayrı-seçkilik halları, sosial xidmətlərə çıxışın məhduddaşdırılması, eləcə də effektiv hüquqi müdafiə mexanizmlərinin yətarli olmaması bu riskləri daha da artırır. Bu baxımdan, miqrasiya sahəsində insan hüquqlarının qorunması yalnız dövlətlərin deyil, eyni zamanda müstəqil nəzarət və müdafiə mexanizmlərinin fəal iştirakı ilə mümkün olur.

Miqrasiyanın səbəbləri müxtəlifdir. Müasir dövrdə insanların məcburi yerdəyişmələrinin əsas məqsədi istər ölkə daxilində, istərsə də digər ölkələrdə daha təhlükəsiz və sabit həyat şəraitinə nail olmaqdır. Nəticədə miqrasiya

FTO orders FBR to take action against cybercriminals

Sohail Sarfraz Published December 25, 2025

ISLAMABAD: The newly appointed Federal Tax Ombudsman (FTO) Zafar-ul-Haq Hijazi has issued his first order against cybercriminals, within the Federal Board of Revenue (FBR)/Pakistan Revenue Automation Limited (PRAL) or outside FBR/PRAL, involved in fraudulent filing of the sales tax returns/ revised returns to show fake supplies using fake/flying invoices.

The FTO on Wednesday issued very strict instructions to the FBR for taking action against the cybercriminals and beneficiaries of tax fraud.

“The repeated hacking of the passwords of IDs of the taxpayers also reflects on the quality of security and sanctity of the data and the whole IT system. The critical system weaknesses include data integrity, inadequate data security, weak internal controls, and insufficient safeguards against tax fraud. The inadequate system controls include manipulation of data, a lack of system alerts for unusual activity, and unauthorized changes in the taxpayers' profiles to facilitate the creation of fake transactions, FTO stated.

Manually-registered persons: FTO asks FBR to carry out probe into data

Sohail Sarfraz Published December 30, 2025

ISLAMABAD: The Federal Tax Ombudsman (FTO) has asked the Federal Board of Revenue (FBR) to carry out a thorough investigation of the data of recent manually registered persons by the Field Formations in order to forestall any revenue leakages.

The Database Administrator, Regional Tax Office (RTO), Multan, provided a list of 65 manually registered cases during the month of November 2025 within the jurisdiction of RTO Multan as a sample.

It was found that these cases have been registered manually from the login of department officers without following the latest SOP for the registration of new NTN.

According to an order of the FTO issued to the FBR on Monday, in view of likely leakage of state revenue, the issue requires further probe by the Field Formations because such registrations have been made in violation of the Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) laid down by the FBR for registration of taxpayers, linking it with mandatory incorporation of “SIM” numbers.
